Dogs    Wolves and Wargs

Dogs also known as "Canis lupus familiaris" are the carnivorous descendants of wolves humans domesticated. While generally docile, they may become wild, cursed, unnaturally ravenous, or all of the above. In these instances, they are treated as predators. Numerous recognized dog breeds exist within the Witcher World like the Aedirnian War Shepherd, the Skellige Shepherd and the Som Inu. Domesticated dogs can be found anywhere where humans and Elderfolk live as they are usually kept as pets and companions while more wild feral specimens tend to rarely pop up around villages due to mistreatment by one or two cruel individuals during times of war, the feral population rises as villages are decimated and these once loving and loyal animal are exposed to the cruelty brought out in war by soldiers.

Bears    Deer    Rabbits

Bears also known as 'Ursus' are a large omnivores that come in three sub-species in the Witcher World such as: Black bears, polar bears and cave bears – which differ from one another in coloring as well as in size and strength.

Black Bear also known as 'Ursus Arctos', are the smallest and least aggressive of the three known sub-species of bear, this type is the most likely to be domesticated.

Cave Bear also known as 'Ursus spelaeus', are the largest of the three recognized sub-species and the one associated with Berzerkers and Werebears. They can be found on the Continent and on Skellige.

Polar Bear also known as 'Ursus maritimus', are a far north and far south native species of bear with white fur, they are apex predators and despite their calm demeanor are stalking predators who will walk up and eat vulnerable prey like humans.
